CODE OF BUSINESS CONDUCT AND ETHICS

As of April 5, 2018, last revised October 14, 2020

1. Introduction

This Code of Business Conduct and Ethics (“Code”) has been adopted by our Board of Directors to summarize the standards of business conduct that must guide our actions. This Code applies to all directors, officers, employees and consultants of Photon Control Inc. and its subsidiaries (the “Company”). The Company has issued this Code to deter wrongdoing and to promote:

- honest and ethical conduct, including the ethical handling of actual or apparent conflicts of interest between personal and professional relationships;
- avoidance of conflicts of interest with the interests of the Company, including disclosure to an appropriate person of any material transaction or relationship that reasonably could be expected to give rise to such a conflict;
- confidentiality of corporate information;
- protection and proper use of corporate assets and opportunities;
- compliance with applicable governmental laws, rules and regulations;
- the prompt internal reporting of any violations of this Code to an appropriate person or person identified in the Code; and
- accountability for adherence to the Code.

This Code provides guidance to you on your ethical and legal responsibilities. We expect all directors, officers, employees and consultants worldwide to comply with the Code, and the Company is committed to taking prompt and consistent action against violations of the Code. Violation of the standards outlined in the Code may be grounds for disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment or other business relationships. Employees, consultants, officers and directors who are aware of suspected misconduct, illegal activities, fraud, abuse of the Company’s assets or violations of the standards outlined in the Code are responsible for reporting such matters.

Because rapid changes in our industry and regulatory environment constantly pose new ethical and legal considerations, no set of guidelines should be considered to be the absolute last word under all circumstances. Although laws and customs will vary in the many different countries in which we operate, our basic ethical responsibilities are global. In some instances, there may be a conflict between the laws of countries that apply to the operations of the Company. When you encounter such a conflict, you should consult the Company’s Legal Counsel to understand how to resolve that conflict properly.

2. Basic Obligations

Under the Company’s ethical standards, directors, officers, employees and consultants share certain responsibilities. It is your responsibility to (a) become familiar with, and conduct Company business in compliance with, applicable laws, rules and regulations and this Code; (b) treat all Company employees, consultants, customers and business partners in an honest and fair manner; (c) avoid situations where your personal interests are, or appear to be, in conflict with the Company interests; and (d) safeguard and properly use the Company's proprietary and confidential information, assets and resources, as well as those of the Company's customers and business partners.

Certain of the Company's policies are complemented by specific responsibilities set forth in documents such as the non-solicitation, non-competition and confidentiality agreement you signed with the Company, the Company's Insider Trading Policy and the Company's Disclosure Policy. Those policies should be separately consulted by the Company directors, officers, employees and consultants and are not incorporated by reference into this Code. Please consult with Human Resources for copies of any policies that you may require.

3. Steps to Raising Concerns

If you should learn of a potential or suspected violation of the Code, you have an obligation to promptly report the violation. In some situations, it is difficult to know if a violation has occurred. The following steps will help you to determine if a potential or suspected violation of the Code has occurred:

1. Ask first - If you are unsure of what to do in any situation, seek guidance from Human Resources;
2. Make sure you have all the facts and provide as much detail as possible;
3. Ask yourself: What specifically am I being asked to do? Does it seem unethical or improper? – Use your judgement and common sense. If something seems unethical or improper, it probably is;
4. Clarify your responsibility and role – Are your colleagues informed? It may help to get others involved and discuss the issue/problem;
5. Discuss the problem with your manager is always the best start as your manager will appreciate being consulted;
6. Seek help from any Photon Control Executive Officer.

You may report the violation orally or in writing and, if preferred, anonymously. You have several options for raising concerns.

- Raise your concerns with your manager;
- Raise your concerns with the Chief Financial Officer;
- Raise your concerns with the Chief Executive Officer; or
- Raise your concern with the Corporate Governance and Nominating Committee.

A report may also be made by leaving an anonymous message, such as writing to your manager or any of the positions above without identifying yourself. If the issue or concern is related to the internal accounting controls of the Company or any accounting or auditing matter, you may report it anonymously to the Audit Committee using our anonymous reporting hotline as indicated in the Company's Whistleblowing Policy.

4. Policy Against Retaliation

The Company prohibits any director, officer, employee, contractor or consultant from retaliating or taking adverse action against anyone for raising in good faith suspected conduct violations or helping to resolve a conduct concern. Any individual who has been found to have engaged in retaliation against a Company director, officer, employee or consultant for raising, in good faith, a conduct concern or for participating in the investigation of such a concern may be subject to discipline, up to and including termination of employment or other business relationships. If any individual believes that he or she has been subjected to such retaliation, that person is encouraged to report the situation as soon as possible to one of the people detailed in the “Raising Concerns” section above.

5. Conflicts of Interest

Directors, officers, employees and consultants should not engage in any activity, practice or act which conflicts with the interests of the Company. A conflict of interest occurs when a director, officer, employee or consultant places or finds himself/herself in a position where his/her private interests conflict with the interests of the Company or have an adverse effect on the employee’s or consultant’s motivation or the proper performance of their job. Examples of such conflicts could include, but are not limited to:

- accepting outside employment with, or accepting personal payments from, any organization which does business with the Company or is a competitor of the Company;
- accepting or giving gifts of more than modest value to or from vendors or clients of the Company;
- competing with the Company for the purchase or sale of property, services or other interests or taking personal advantage of an opportunity in which the Company has an interest;
- personally having immediate family members who have a financial interest in a firm which does business with the Company; and
- having an interest in a transaction involving the Company or a customer, business partner or supplier (not including routine investments in publicly traded companies).

Directors, officers, employees and consultants must not place themselves or remain in a position in which their private interests conflict with the interests of the Company.

If the Company determines that an employee’s or consultant’s outside work interferes with performance or the ability to meet the requirements of the Company, as they are modified from time to time, the employee or consultant may be asked to terminate the outside employment if he or she wishes to remain employed by the Company. To protect the interests of each of the employees, consultants and the Company, any such outside work or other activity that involves potential or apparent conflict of interest may be undertaken only after disclosure to the Company by the employee or consultant and review and approval by management.

6. Confidentiality Concerning Company Affairs

It is the Company’s policy that business affairs of the Company are confidential and should not be discussed with anyone outside the organization except for information that has, already been made available to the public. As a prerequisite and condition of employment, all employees, consultants, directors and officers must sign a written agreement confirming this obligation.

7. Competition and Fair Dealing

We seek to outperform our competition fairly and honestly. We seek competitive advantages through superior performance, not through unethical or illegal business practices. Information about other companies and organizations, including competitors, must be gathered using appropriate methods. Illegal practices such as trespassing, burglary, misrepresentation, wiretapping and stealing are prohibited. Each employee, consultant, director and officer should endeavour to respect the rights of, and deal fairly with, our customers, suppliers, competitors, employees and consultants. No employee, consultant, officer or director should take unfair advantage of anyone through manipulation, concealment, abuse or privileged information, misrepresentation of material facts, or any other unfair business practice.

8. Insider Trading

The Company encourages all employees and consultants to become shareholders on a long-term investment basis. However, management, employees, consultants, members of the Board of Directors and others who are in a “special relationship” with the Company from time to time, may become aware of corporate developments or plans which may affect the value of the Company’s shares (inside information) before these developments or plans are made public. Blackout periods occur certain times throughout the year and during this time, all Company employees, consultants, officers and directors are prohibited from buying or selling the Company’s securities on any exchange on which the Company’s securities are listed for trading. In order to avoid civil and criminal insider trading violations, the Company has established an Insider Trading Policy.
